About Chloe Bastien

Chloe Bastien grew up with her single mother and younger sister on the outskirts of Minnesota. From an early age, Chloe was drawn to the beauty industry, often playing with her mother's makeup alongside her sister. As she grew older, she realized she could turn her passion for makeup into a career. She landed her first job in the retail industry at the Lancôme counter in her local Dillard's, where she spent several years learning the ins and outs of the beauty world.

An opportunity arose for a larger opening in Texas, and Chloe, wanting more from her professional life, decided to pursue it. She moved to Dallas, where I met her while we were both working at beauty counters in Nordstrom. We worked together at the same store for another year until I was promoted to account coordinator. Not long after, another position opened up, and Chloe seized the chance. She applied, got the job, and we ended up working together once again.

While living in Texas, she has been diligently working toward her degree in fashion merchandising and is busy planning her spring wedding to her fiancé. Chloe is one of the smartest people I know. She understands the importance of working hard but also finds a balance in life to have fun.
